"Signed by Proxy."

By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH. of War Proctor very seldom uses a pen to sign his name. He has had a stamp made, and when the mail hour arrives a messenger when the mail hour arrives a messenger stands before him and stamps letters, orders and even requisitions for money with a fac simile of "Redfield Proctor." When the Secretary writes to the President he signs his communication with a pen. The method of signing with a stamp was instituted by the late Attorney-General Brewster. His name was long—Benjamin Harrison Brewster—and it took him some time to write it out in full. He would never write "B. H." or "Benjamin H." It was either the entire name or "Brewster." Some one told him one day that "Brewster," Some one told him one day that "Brewster," Attorney-General," savored of affectation and pomposity and angested that he drop it. Thereupon Mr. Brewster adopted a stamp on the die of which was cut a fac simile of his full name. He grew weary of the stamp in a short time, and resumed the "Brewster, Attorney-General.".

In Mr. Clevsland's administration Secretary Endlect used a stamp almost from the day he went into the War Department. Mr. Endicott was a weary man always, his absences were frequent and he had no fondness for "mechanical work," as the dudes of the State Department call writing. It seems that the girl was always of a melancholy disposition, and the death of her mother, who suicided by the same means but five weeks ago, weighed heavily on her mind. This is proven by the fact that even in her agony she walked from 313 South Third street to 409 South Second street, saying that she wanted to die in the room where her mother had breathed her last. Chas. Becker, 1735 South Second street, testified that he had kept company with the deceased for about a year. He says that five weeks ago she requested him to marry her. He promised to do so but asked for a couple of mouths in which to save a little money. "She seemed satisfied at that," he said, "but she told me repeatedly that she would kill herself if I did not keep my promise. I told her if she talked that way I would not marry her at all, and last Wednesday evening I went to see her. She told me when I left that I would never see her alive but I thought it was but another of her threats." The boy says that he had always intended to marry the girl and seems much distressed at the suicide.

The heaviest rainfail reported is at Washington, D. C., 2.68, and New York, City, 1.70. The weather in the West and northwest is generally pleasant, although a little below the normal temperature. Oklahoma Citt, I.-T., April 26.—Five men in their coffins and a maniae in Irons were carried north from this infant city yesterday. The dead men had died natural deaths, that is to say nature had given way under the hardships encountered, and nene-of the five deaths were directly at the hands of fellow-men. The madman, John Evans, left his family in Eldorado, Kan., a few days ago and was apparently in the best of health. He came to Oklahoma city on the first train Monday, found the city in possession of United States Deputy Marshals and bushmen and was unable to realize his expectations. A claim which he finally secured was umped by a professional and a revolver four-ished in his face when he remonstrated. Evans had little money and his subsequent trial robbed him of his reason. As he lay on the platform yesterday waiting for the train he talked incoherently of claims and town lots and implored those near him not to rob him of his little plece of ground. The sight was a pittful one. Evans was taken to Winfield and placed in a hospital for the insane. Another man went crazy the previous night and was placed on a northbound train. At Alfred he broke away and tried to assault Lieut. Waite of the Infantry Company stationed there, but was overpowered. "I want a claim, I want a claim!" was his incessant cry. He was put aboard the train again and will be treated in the Winfield Another.

The murderers fied and the unfortunate idow walked to Alfred with the news. The lead man was buried by the settlers and a mall subscription was raised to send the amily home. The rude funeral was in progess as the train passed.

THE BEAVIS ORPHANS.

The late L. U. REAVIS was for many years past one of the best-known men in St. Louis-known chiefly as a man whose one idea in life was to suggest and do what would promote the greatness of this city and the State of Missouri. It was a kind of craze in him, and some of his visionary projects exposed him to a tem-pest of jeers from abroad that were unpest of jeers from abroad that were ungratefully echoed at home. But although his achievements were not great, his untiring faith and zeal were serviceable in promoting practicable enterprises and in animating others with the patriotic spirit that seeks its chief pleasure and highest reward in rendering public services. No other pleasure or reward was his, as his whole life was one of poverty and struggle, the struggle of a badly crippled and ungainly man, with many faults of manner and temper. But a few years before his death he married, and his last hours were imbittered by the fact that he was leaving his widow and two little children penniless. That the people of St. Louis will permit them to suffer for the common necessaries of life we do not believe, and the Post-Dispatch will gladly receive contributions to a fund for their benefit. We owe something for the life that was dedicated to this city and State with such singleness of purpose and unflagging devotion. We never wanted the Capitol removed from Washington to St. Louis, but we cannot afford to let other cities say that St. Louis has sent the orphan babes of the Capitol-mover to the Poor-house.

EUBANKS AS A SCAPEGOAT.

When the President confers Cabinet positions in return for large contributions to the fund that carried the pivotal States for him, and when his party upholds or tacitly assents to that sort of thing, why should it pretend to censure its Congressmen or its defeated candidates for Congress for trying to recover their campaign expenses by charging a moderate broker's ommission on the Federal appointments placed at their disposa!?

When the party openly, before the face of the whole country and without putting even the thinnest disguise upon the transaction, sells the Vice-Presidency to a millionaire for a campaign fund consideration and for no other consideration whatever, it authorizes and invites every member of that party who wants an office to buy it, and every member who has an office at his disposal to sell it. When the spoils system flourishes full blown as it does now, and the patronage is parceled out systematically to local politicians and to railroad presidents or other representatives of special "business interests" for campaign services, the outery against the Hon. A. C. Eubanks of Missouri and the pretense of condemning the moderate fees he charges as an office broker is a mona majority of three in Con- tives of special "business interests" for

He does in a small way only what his party and its most exalted leaders are doing on a far larger and more corrupting scale. To make him a sacrificial scapegoat for their sins, while placing the control of the country in the hands of such men as STEVE ELKINS and LELAND STAN-FORD, is to deride the intelligence and morality of the American people.

Decorate and Illuminate. Last evening the following address to the people of St. Louis was issued by Grand Marshal Frank Galennie in accordance with the request of the Citizens' Committee:

OFFICE OF FRANK GAIENNIE, GRAND MARSHAL, GRAND MARSHAL,
WASHINGTON CENTENNIAL PARADE,
ROOM 308 GHAMBER OF COMMERCE,
St. LOUIS, April 25, 1889. St. Louis will celebrate the centennial and iversary of the inauguration of George Vashington as the first President of the Inited States with a grand street parade or

United States with a grand street Parade on April 30.
It is fitting that the people, in recognition of the blessings they enjoy because of the government begun upon that day, and to do honor to the citizens who participate in the parade, decorate their homes and business houses with the national colors, portraits of Washington, flags and other devices bearing patriotic inscriptions.

And I would most earnestly urge that at night the windows of all the houses in the city be illuminated in the old fashion, with tailow dip candles in mitation of our forefathers and in conformity with the request contained in the Mayor's proclamation relating to the celebration of the day.

Bing the Bells and Toot the Whistles. Secretary W. S. Bartley of the Citizens Committee has issued the following by order of the Citizens' Committee:

"The grand celebration of Washington's inauguration 100 years ago will be ushered in by the firing of cannons, ringing of bells and blowing of whistles.

"Therefore, ciergymen of the city, commanders of beats and manufacturers are hereby notified that it is the wishes of the Citizens' Committee that they should make proper arrangements for the execution of this request. Between the hours of $5.30 and $9. m. on the 30th, it is hoped that every bell and whistle in the city will join with the cannon and make the welkin ring."

A Little Girl's Protest.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch: I see that some girl has entered a protest against all the glory of Tuesday's parade against all the glory of Tuesday's parade being monopolized by the boys. I too think we ought to march and we are just as strong and willing as the boys, who have not thought of snything for weeks but brass bands, files and drums. Why, Mr. Editor, they couldn't solve a problem in arithmetic unless it contained something about cannon, shot and shell. I have no doubt they will try to lord it over us giris, next week, but they can't do it, for we still have left our weapons, which have done good service for centuries—brooms. How much nicer we would look than a lot of boys, and I think Mr. Long lacks appreciation, or he would have selected us to do honor to our public schools. We girls do, and will, withdraw our respect for Mr. Long as a man of good taste from now until 1999.

30, celebrating the inaugural of the father of our country.

Lafayette, a true follower of Washington in name, fame, and in fact our council, the largest in the United States of the order, in which we are proud you are a member, ask your hearty co-operation for this glorious event. Can we remain passive to the sentiments such an occasion inspires in the heart of every good citizen: You have often heard it expressed that we want to show our friends what material we are made of. No better chance has ever been offered. We, the committee, look forth with anxiety to a grand showing. We have adopted a uniform and expect the Council to use them. Remember, one day in a century can be spared in the patriotic observance of Washington's first luauguration, and let us figure on one candidate to five members, and you will see the motio verified. As the orator says: "I hope to live and see the American Legion of Honor increase in the territory from hialme to California, and from the loe-bound North to the torrid South, where the dusky daughters bathe their feet in the limpid waters of the Guif of Mexico."

We hope we have inspired you by our modest request that you will not only come, but urge it on Brother Companions, not only for the parade, but to our meetings occasionally. You will find the "hatchet" covered with

She is the daughter of parents who did a great deal for the church in Clnoinnati. The vast property on which the Ecclesiastical Seminary is situated was their gift. They also built a chapel for the Convent of the Good Shepherd at a cost of $80,000. Miss Doyle has for many years been endeavoring to adopt a religious life, but her blindness was an objection against her being received into any order. At last the inspiration came to her to apply to the Carmelites in this city. The prioress was much interested in her case, and after learning the history of her family determined to make an effort to meet her desires. She wrote to the General at Rome, explaining all the circumstances of the case. After considerable delay and correspondence permission was granted and the blind girl was admitted to the holy habit. She was received last Tuesday morning by Vicar-General Brady, Father Felix, the Superior of the Passionists, her former coalessor in Cincinnati, preaching the sermon. It was a very touching scene, as the young novice was led by one of the Sisters to the foot of the Assension of the Case at the state of the chapel were moved to tears. trict Representative is extending very little belp toward securing the reward that Filley claims. Congressman Frank is in New York. John W. Gates, who has represented Filley at Washington, subject to repudiation by the St. Louis boss, has also gone to New York, and is at present doing nothing. Mr. Gates' part is not generally understood. At Washington it was understood he spoke for Filley. When Filley wanted to persuade the President that he had been promised the St. Louis Postmastership he wrote a letter to Mr. Gates and that gentleman immediately made its contents public. Secretary Noble's most intimate friends here state that Gen. Noble never entered into any agreement to recommend Filley for Post-master and that the "tripartite agreement" referred to by Filley is a dream. Filley's

Congressman Frank thought that after making the fight and subsequent contest in November, 1886, in the Ninth District, he was entitled to a renomination in 1885. Filley was opposed to Frank's renomination. In his first campaign the Congressman had learned the ropes and did not promise to "yield" as a Congressional candidate. It was known that Filley had two other men whom he favored and if Mr. J. G. Chapman would have consented to take the nomination Congressman Frank would probably be a private citizen now. The Congressman's friends checkmated the play by gaining the favor of the Ninth District National Delegate, when though not down in the regular order mated the play by gaining the favor of the mated the play by gaining the favor of the mated manner and the play by gaining the favor of the manner and the manner and the mated the play by gaining the favor of the manner and the man

The Mayor this morning appointed William earved two terms in the Pennsylvania Hart as Justice of the Peace to succeed Eugene lary. His record, however, does not B. Cronin, who died yesterday. The Mayor was compelled to make the appointment at such an early date on account of the indecent haste made by about twenty-five citizens who rushed in yesterday afternoon and this morning and applied for the appointment. Mr. Hart was appointed without his knowledge or consent. Mayor Noonan explained the matter this morning, saying: "Mr. Hart is an honest and capable man and has done much to aid Mr. Cronin and his family. He has not made any application for the place and would not out of respect for Mr. Cronin. I have appointed him on account of his fitness for the position and to shut off all of these men who are scrambling for a dead man's shoes." was compelled to make the appointment a Capt. George Schuester has been appointed Chief of the Marine Department under Col Churchili, Surveyor of the Port, and this morning he took leave of the officials in Court-room No. 3 of the Circuit Court, where he has been on duty as a Deputy Sheriff. Capt. Schuester occupied the position to which he has been reappointed for nineteen years, and was an efficient officer. When Lancaster took charge he was asked to resign. Sheriff Pohlman gave him a position as deputy, and he has been in Court-room No. 3 from the time of his appointment until to-day.

was to have come up before Judge Withrow this morning, but it was laid over until 2 o'clock. There are three different injunction suits and while they are not exactly similar the issue in all is the right to occupy with tracks a certain portion of the waterworks property and Hall street. The arguments in each case must be substantially the same and it was the desire of the attorneys to dispose of them all at once if possible. Judge Withrow was spoken to about having one of the other judges sit with him and he readily consented. The other cases are before Judges Fisher and Vallant. Judge Withrow had cleared his docket so as to be ready for the case this morning, but the other judges had not, and when the hour for trial came this morning neither of them was ready to join Judge Withrow in the case. It was therefore determined to lay the case over until 2 o'clock, and take it up then, with one of the others if possible, and without if they were both busy. Thomas Kelley, by John Kelley, his next friend, filed shit for $5,000 damages against the Citizens' Raliway Co. for personal injuries. The petition states that Kelley was crossing the cable track, on Morran street just east of Seventeenth street, when he was knocked down by a grip car. His thigh was broken in two places, and he received other and permanent injuries for which he asks damages. The case of E. P. V. Ritter against A. J. Cramer, Thomas Phillips and John Nolan was dismissed as to Oramer and a judgment was taken against Phillips and Nolan for $1,050 damages. The suit was on a building bond, growing out of the building of four houses for Ritter.

growing out of the building of four houses for Ritter.

James T. McClenden brought suit against Charles Jungling, Eliza Voepel, George Murmann and Fred Botham, Jungling, a Constable, being the chief defendant. The suit is on his bond for $5,000 damages for levying upon household property which was exempt. The petition charges that after McClenden made the levy he placed a drunken watchman with a revolver in charge of the property and kept bim there for the purpose of annoying and barrassing McClenden until he should pay the execution. rassing McClenden until he should pay the execution.

The case of the Collins Varnish Co. against ex-Sheriff Harrington, on his bond, was still on trial before Judge Valliant. It grows out of a levy made on five barrels of varnish.

The jury gave a verdict for the defendant in the case of Jefferson D: Balfour against the St. Louis Raliroad Co., a suit for $5,000 damages for an alleged assault made on the plaintiff by a conductor on one of the defendant's cars. This is the second verdict that has been given in favor of a corporation within the past few days.

Judgment by consent was taken in the case of Mary E. Blasdell against John Maguire, and the amount awarded the plaintiff was $270.

The Quarterly Report on Teachers' Salaries Just Issued-What it Contains. The quarterly report on teachers' salaries just issued and submitted to the President of the School Board shows some interesting facts. The average number of pupils be longing in the third quarter of the year, 1887 ionging in the third quarter of the year, 1887-88, was 43,145 and the average daily attendance was 53,682. The average number belonging during the same quarter in 1888-89 was 43,627, and average daily attendance 40,231. The average number of pupils belonging in the kindergarten during the same quarter was 33,784, and average daily attendance 3,346. In the third quarter of 1888-89 the average number belonging was 3,528 and average attendance 3,103. It will be noticed that there has been an apparent falling off in the attendance at the kindergartens, but this is not the case. Last year those children who attended whole day kindergartens were counted as two, and this year they have been only reckoned as one. The amount expended for teachers' salaries for the third quarter in 1888-89, 3167,872.30. There are twenty-four more rooms in the schools now than there was in 1887-88. The average cost of teachers' salaries per room is about 3790 making the cost for the twenty-four new rooms 518,960. As the expenditure for teachers' salaries for the third quarter of this school year is only 31,652.20 in excess of the expenditure for the same period of last year, it follows that a saving 67 30,667.80 per quarter, or 512,361.20 for the year has been effected over and above what has been saved by the discontinuance of teaching German, which cost within a fraction of 515,000 a quarter.

This morning the police sent to the Mayor's office a ragged-looking little boy who was taken off an emigrant train as it was stopping The boy was entirely alone and none of the assengers on the train knew anything abou passengers on the train knew anything about him.

At the Mayor's office he gave an account of himself in a very caim, anabashed manner. He would not talk unless questioned.

He was asked, "How old are you?"
"Going on 13," said the boy.
"What is your name?"
"Tommy Clark."
"Where did you come from?"
"Toronto. I want to see the country."
"What country do you want to see?"
"Oh, all of it. I like cowboys best, but anything will do."
"Do you know that they are going to send you to the House of Refuge?"
"Yes. I don't know what that is, but I met a nice boy in jail, who said he was going there, and I want to see him again."
The boy said after a good deal of questioning that his father worked in a store in Toronto, but that he himself did nothing and wanted to see the country so he got on the emigrant rain and came down, getting enough to eat from people on the train. He had not made any plans and was well enough satisfied with the prospect of going to the House of Refuge. He said he was a pretty good fighter and that one boy he fought with he got up against a fence and that after that the boy was in bed for a long time.
